STRONG LANGUAGE

(NC) Dir: Simon Rumley. UK, 74 min. Simon Rumley's low-budget indie British feature assembles a cross-section of twentysomething odd-jobbers and misfits from London life in the late Nineties and encourages them to speak direct to camera in a series of takes on money, music, drugs, sex, politics and - oh, yes, movies. Self-referential, but engrossing, the film's agenda is ambitious and often funny.
